HAPPY NEW YEAR !

From Nell and the Mt Gainor Inn

Well here it is a new year and I can tell from all of the activity that the Inn is expanding. Laurie and Jerry have had all these humans coming and going doing all kinds of things and I think I have finally figured it out. It appears that they are adding a large dining room with a new kitchen for Laurie. I expect she is planning on cooking me gourmet home cooked meals instead of that canned stuff!! I heard them talk about installing a BIG screen television in the dining room so I can watch the movies from the new front porch. I also heard them say that it can also be used for presentations by guests if they want to hold a meeting there. I just might have all of my feline friends over for cat nip. It appears that there will be two new rooms also. Another detached cottage in the back and it looks like there will be a see thru candle fireplace between the two person whirlpool spa tub and the bedroom. They bought a four posted king size bed that has silk on the top and have made it very clear that I am not to even think about climbing up there. The porch is real nice too as I can lounge there and catch the cool breeze and take a nap.

The upstairs room also has a King Size bed and a spa tub. But the greatest thing about it is, I will be able to survey my kingdom from above (as it should be) and I expect to have a really comfy throne, oops I mean chair. The view is magnificent I can see for miles!

I have heard the names they have thought of and I will tell you what, they need help!! So, I have decided to help them by having a contest for names for the new rooms. I have set up a link on my, I mean their, home page where you can click and go to my, there I go again, Face Book page and suggest names. If your name is chosen, I will convince them that the humans who names I picked will get the first two nights in the new rooms at no charge (guess I better start trying to make this happen).

I am tired now after all of this thinking and I need a nap. Good luck and be sure to pet me a lot when you get your free nights in the new rooms.

Lots of love Nell
